ARABIAN GOLD TO ATTEND 2009 MENA-EX IN JEDDAH

In January 2009 Jeddah plays host to the 2nd Annual MENA-EX conference. The three day conference, which starts January 18th, is expected to attract more than 1000 delegates and 80 companies for around the world.

The conference is hosted by the Ministry of Petroleum and Mineral Resources, in cooperation with the Saudi Geological Survey (SGS) and Saudi Arabian Mining Company MA'ADEN. On the back of the success of last years event the conference has been expanded to incorporate a two day strategic forum. The forum will cover topics including the challenging economic environment, Saudi Arabia's emerging mining industry, development of the mining industry across the region, and trends of financing mining and mineral projects in the Kingdom.

For the second year in succession Arabian Gold's CEO Steven Poulton and COO Drew Craig will be attending the conference, which provides an invaluable forum to meet industry peers and officials in the Middle East mining sector.
